

World Social Forum Karachi, a first and short report

Thursday 30 March 2006, by TARIO Farooq (Date first published: 30 March 2006).

Karachi World Social Forum ended yesterday with a closing rally addressed by mainly young activists from different countries. Over 35000 attended the unprecedented event in the history of Pakistan due the course of five days. Over 300 events attracted hundreds of activists from different walk of life. Activists from 59 countries participated in the event.

Held at Karachi Sports Complex from 24th March to 29th March, WSF Karachi brought together most of the movements in Pakistan on one platform. It was from peasants to fisher folk, from women rights groups to national liberation struggle groups, they were all there.

Never before in the history of Pakistan, were so many different walks of life united in opposing new liberal agenda, militarization and imperialist globalization. There were countless rallies and cultural programmes during the five days. It was people at liberty. It was activists at freedom to say anything at the time when they are unable to say it in public due to the fear of prosecution at the hands of present military dictatorship.

Never before, delegates from 59 countries got together in one plat form in Pakistan. They were here to show their solidarity with Pakistan masses in their struggle against imperialism and religious fundamentalism. They were here fearing that something would happen during the WSF as there has been many unfortunate incidents of bombing and firing by the state forces and religious fundamentalists. But to the luck of every one, nothing of that sort incident happen.

The media could not find any issue to bring against the WSF Karachi as was the case in Mumbai during the WSF in 2004. At Mumbai, the media fabricated a story of rape during the WSF. The media gave full coverage to the cultural and serious political and social issues during the all five days. It was newspapers full of WSF stories on the front pages. The journalist was also amazed to see the response of the people and the way they were expressing their feeling against the rotten capitalist feudal system. They had many good stories to report from one venue.

The Left parties now united in one "Peoples Democratic Movement" (AJT) found themselves encircled by many hundreds who wanted hear them on every issue. I had been invited to speak on countless events and for the five days, It was speaking after speaking on issues related from class struggle, trade unions rights, women issues, National liberation struggle in Kashmir and Baluchistan, question of unjust distribution of resources and so on.

Labour Party Pakistan supported organizations like Women Workers Help Line, National Trade Union Federation, Progressive Youth front, Pakistan Peasants Coordination Committee, Labour Education Foundation organized seven different workshops and seminars during the five days. Here is some details of these functions
