

ESSF/MiHANDs emergency appeal: earthquakes in Mindanao (Philippines)

Wednesday 6 November 2019, by ESSF, JOHNSON Mark, ROUSSET Pierre (Date first published: 5 November 2019).

Schools, clinics and homes in the provinces of North Cotabato, Sarangani and Davao have been destroyed or damaged by a series of earthquakes, aftershocks and flooding. People on highways are begging for help and food from passers-by. Heavy rain is complicating movement of people and relief supplies.

The main earthquakes occurred on Oct. 16 (magnitude 6.3), Oct. 29 (magnitude 6.6) and Oct. 31 (magnitude 6.5). These earthquakes were not anticipated and no warning was announced. The Philippine Institute of Volcanology and Seismology (PHIVOLCs) warns that aftershocks, even new earthquakes could continue over the next few weeks. There are associated risks of flood damage and water-borne disease.

According to the National Disaster Risk Reduction and Management Council, a total of 37,716 families or 188,583 persons have been affected as of 5 November. [1] At least 755 schools have been damaged or destroyed, as well as 36 health facilities. [2] The full extent of damage, casualties, missing and displaced persons is still not known.

Government services are of poor quality and not focused on the needs of the urban and rural poor, as well as the Moro and Lumad (indigenous) peoples. Government resources have long been concentrated on protection of corporate investors and a low-intensity confrontation with various armed rebels. Although the government has promised financial and material assistance via the Department of Labor and Employment (DOLE) and the Overseas Workers Welfare Administration (OWWA), previous experience suggests that this will be largely consumed by bureaucracy and corruption.

In this context, grass-roots relief and reconstruction is an essential component of building a better Mindanao, for all its peoples.

The MiHANDs network of 50 progressive civic associations has mobilized its volunteer base to conduct a needs assessment and extend emergency assistance to the affected communities.

In recent years, ESSF has supported MIHANDs' efforts to develop an innovative, grassroots mechanism for emergency intervention, rehabilitation, and reconstruction. [3] This has involved a conscious effort to avoid the 'NGOization' that has deformed many progressive initiatives in the Philippines and elsewhere. MiHANDs is also committed to a non-partisan support to the multi-ethnic peace and democracy movements in Mindanao and across the Philippines.

These recent earthquakes, the 300+ aftershocks and flooding have affected the towns and villages where MiHANDs members live and work. The MiHANDs office in Cotabato City office has been damaged.

ESSF will soon receive MiHANDs' consolidated needs assessment and intervention strategy. We already know for sure that financial solidarity is needed. We are asking for donations to support movement-led humanitarian relief and reconstruction.
